The last time I saw Mommy was at Booms boxing match and I will never forget our last words. I kissed her and hugged her said "Love you Mommy" She held me back and said, "I love you too" I will keep those dear 4 words in my heart to help me, hold me up and keep me going. I wanna thank both of my wonderful sisters, Nani and Val. Who are a perfect reflection our mother. They have been so strong and graceful especially during this whole process. They have given me strength and comfort because without them I don't know how we'd get through this ordeal of laying our beautiful Mother to rest. Having these amazing older sisters just shows how wonderful and great our Mother is, how she raised and instilled her very own characteristics in her daughters. An amazing strong woman raising amazing strong women. I am proud to say I am Elaine's daughter. I know it wasn't just my sisters and I who've had the privilege to experience the incredible love she had to give. She was there for so many other people as well and I'm happy to have shared all that she had to give with all of you. From Mama & Papa, to her brothers and sisters, our cousins, all of our family and friends. My husband, Jake, and our sweet sons, Zion and Cruz. She loved you all so much. Our Mother loved everyone so bravely and fiercely. She was like a 2nd Mom to many, all calling her Mama Elaine or Mama Laine. And from all the people who are here and have been there, I see that she was very loved by many as well. So thank you all for loving her back. She was always there when ever you needed, and welcomed everyone with understanding. We could always turn to her, count on her to be there, and confied in her. She was charismatic and always had us laughing. Her presence will be greatly missed not only by me, my boys, or my sisters but by everyone. Mom you are the shining light in my life and will continue to remain that shining light. The wind beneath my wings. So Mommy you can rest easy now and find peace knowing that I, we, will ok because you did a perfect job of guiding us all. Your love of life and legacy will live on. For when I smile, you smile. When I laugh, you laugh. And when I love, you love. I love you Mommy. Always and forever. To eternity ☐
